WORK FOR THE MONTH—February.

Whilst it happens sometimes that we have our coldest weather in this month, there is still accompanying it the pleasant reflection that the coming spring will not much longer be delayed. This winter has been one of such unusual and uninterrupted severity that it is hardly likely the balance of it will not be interrupted by more thaws and moderate "spells." The stormy days and long avenings give abundant opportunities for maturing plaus for the work ahead. A farmer cannot give too much thought to his work—the trouble is that they too often give too little.

Manurus and Composts.—The gathering of materials for increasing the supply of these, their smalgamation together, and protection from loss of valuable parts, is a work which can be carried on profitably at almost every season. Few cases exist where such collecting can be protected by covers from the weather, but it is always practicable to locate your manure piles and compost heaps so that their most huseful constituents shall not be washed out by every rain that falls. The manure from horse and cow stables, pigpons, &c.; the wastes from house, the dish water and chamber slops, may all be advantageously mixed together in a basin-shaped depression towards which and not from which, the liquids will run. Many other wubstances can be added to such piles, to their increase as well of value as of bulk, such as leaves, old bones, sods, muck, dead animals or fowls, &c.

Sowing Clover Seed.—This month is a good time to seew, and if snow is a server of the Court is," said animals or fowls, &c.

leaves, old bones, sods, muck, dead animals or fowls, &c.

Sowing Clover Serd.—This month is a good time to sew, and if snow is on the ground when it is sown it adds to the regularity and evenness of the operation, and the seed carried into the earth by the sinking of melting snow lodge in the crevices left by the frost and are at once ready to germinate and grow. If it is not convenient to sow early, and you wait till the frost is sufficiently harrowed in and rolled. For most soils, from 10 to 12 lbs: per arere is a proper quantity.

As soon as the clover fairly begins to grow, an application of one or two bushels of plaster to the acre will help to establish it and give it a push ahead.

Orchard Grass.—The sales of the court is," said Judge Porter, a popular Lirish magistrate, to a notorious drunkard, "that you be confined in jail for the longest period the law will allow; and I hope you will spend the time in cursing whisky." "Be jabers I will, and Portor, "was the answer.

A young lady whose lover has absound and left her forlorn, like peor Dido, has thus given vent to her sortow: "He's gone across the sudzy sea; he's crost the lakey watter! To see Jerusby Angeline—Ben Smither's oldered and the control of the court is," said the blushing damsel to a lover that her father had forbidden the house, "I don't care if your father."

He's gone across the starty sea; never the proper quantity.

As soon as the clover fairly begins to grow, an application of one or two bushels of plaster to the acro will help to establish it and give it a push ahead.

Ordhand Grass.—The value of this plant, not by any means a new introduction, seems to be but slowly realized by many, though others who test it are readily convinced as to its great merite. It is admirably adapted for sowing with Clover—far better than Timbuy is. They bloom about the same time and the Clover seems to fill up the spaces between the stools of the Orobard grass. The yield is much greater than either will give alone, and list pasture is abundant and lasting.

The tendency to form stools, and the coarseness, to which some object who have not taken the proper means to dampen it and turn it over once or twice, but an experienced hand finds of difficulty in sowing it evenly.

For late and early pasture, resisting drouth, and long continuance, there is no forage plant equaling this We kno sods, productive still, which have not been disturbed for over 20 years. Of course it needs top-dressings to maintain it.

Parthers.—Now, when the teams are of posching, it gives a good chance to apply a mixture of, say 100 or 150 lbs. of bone-dust, 4 or bushels of sahes, and 1 bushel each of salt and plaster, to the acre. If the state of the ground will permit, it is well to harrow; and when this application is made, to roll. Clover seed, if desired, may also then be sown.

Grain Fillings and the proper means and observed from the dishes in the presence of the ground will permit, it is well to harrow; and when the application is made, to roll. Clover seed, if desired, may also then be sown.

Grain Fillings and the filling have a grown of the year, every kind of the sucra of the year, every kind of the presence of the guests by the surface drains are kept cle your mowing machine as are most liable to break. These can be obtained of the maker; and if you never need them, you may consider yourself fortunate. Now is the time to attend to these matters. In regard to hoes, shovels, spades, &c., it is best to have a surplus, to be used in case you want to employ extra help at any time. It is unpleasant for a neighbor to be called on to lend a hoe, shovel, or other farm implement, when they can be bought for 50 cents to §1.50. Remember, too, that the best tools are the cheapest in the end.

Ottar of roses was discovered by accident. The wife of an Eastern mogul had a sunsil causel of rose-water, and as she was walking one day upon its banks, she noticed a thin film upon the water, which proved to be and if made by the heat of the sun. The Egyptians were very famous in the manufacture of perfumes, and at the musem in Aluwick there is some ointment preserved in an alabaster wase which still has a very powerful odor notwithstanding it must be between two and three thousand years old.
